Bike Path Art SPOKES SUMMER 2010 COMPETITION

Offroad cyclepaths like the North Edinburgh Network, East Lothian's Pencaitland Way, West Lothian's A89 route, or Midlothian's railway paths provide great leisure opportunities as well as routes to work or shops. But could the paths be even more interesting and attract even more people? In parts of Britain, often on Sustrans routes, there are artworks along the way. The giant Bedrock Bicycle in West Lothian on the Edinburgh to Glasgow Sustrans route is a fine example - a huge bicycle using massive stone grinding wheels from former local industry. See www.sustrans.org.uk/what-we-do/art-and-the-travelling-landscape for more examples of Sustrans path art.

For our competition this year Spokes is asking you to come up with bright ideas for a new artwork for offroad paths in Edinburgh or the Lothians. Your idea might be a sculpture; shapes/templates for rubbings; reshaping the surrounding ground in a special way; a design for something on the path surface; 'functional art' such as interesting waymarkings, seats, signposts, shelters; or something else. Your idea might have a connection to the path or the local area, for example to local history, nature, people, the landscape, to a nearby building .. or whatever. We're particularly interested in what inspires you about your idea - why it fits its location or the wider area, why it might encourage more people to use that path by bike, a connection to cycling ... or ... tell us!

The competition is open to everyone: Spokes is seeking your bright idea. A sketch is welcome in your entry, but written-only ideas are also fine.

HOW ENTRIES WILL BE USED

Spokes will put some or all entries on our website, in our Bulletin, possibly in a special publication, or use them in other (non profit-making) ways. We would of course normally credit your name.

We hope to exhibit the winning entries (possibly at our autumn Public Meeting). We will also pass them on to other relevant bodies – so a truly amazing idea might even end up as an actual project! For example, Sustrans, the City Council and various partner organisations may be considering artworks on some local paths, and if so we hope to pass on winning ideas for possible use.

COMPETITION RULES...

- Send your entry any time from now, but no later than 24 September 2010 (the end of Mobility Week).
- Judging will be by Spokes Resources Group assisted by Edinburgh architect and Spokes member Benjamin Tindall, a specialist in “the art and craft of architecture” [www.benjamintindallarchitects.co.uk].
- Entries can be as short as you like, but no more than 2 sides of A4. Post/email your entry to Spokes (address above). If emailing put Competition 2010 in the Subject line, and send it in pdf format if possible, otherwise rtf [If using Microsoft Word, use Save As then select rtf] OR post a paper copy to Spokes.
- Your entry must say ...
 - WHAT your artwork would be: the basic design details - its size, what material might be used etc. For example, natural materials, living things, metal, stone, possibly recycled bike parts!
 - WHERE it might go: a specific geographic location on/near a cyclepath in Edinburgh or the Lothians - or a type of place – for example, path junctions, the path surface itself, subway walls etc.
 - WHY this would be a valuable addition to the path: For example, its relevance to the area or the path; or why it might encourage more people to use the path. Maybe it's fun, or interesting, or thought-provoking. This will be a very important criterion in judging the entries.
- If possible include a sketch, but that is not essential. Be limited only by your imagination!
- Please include the information below on a separate page, or on the back, so the judges don't know who you are.
 - Name
 - Address and Postcode
 - Email address
 - Phone
 - If you wish to say anything brief about yourself, please do - for example age, occupation, reason for interest in cycling. This will not count in judging but might be helpful if we use your entry later.
- Your entry will not be returned to you, so consider keeping a copy.
- The competition is open to anyone - Spokes member or not, any age, any occupation. Members of Spokes Resources Group may enter, but are not eligible for any prize.
- Spokes may use your entry in any way we choose. For example, we might use it in Spokes publications and we might submit it to organisations who might be able to create and install it. We will normally credit your name unless you wish to remain anonymous.
