subject: RE: A90 path upgrade (Consultation questionnaire)

Good Afternoon,

The City of Edinburgh Council, in partnership with Sustrans and Transport Scotland, is developing a scheme to enhance the pedestrian and cycle path that parallels the A90 between the Burnshot and Dalmeny junctions. We are improving the path in five sections (see attached plan) and are currently developing designs for Sections 2 and 3 which we plan to have constructed in early 2015. The work in Sections 2 and 3 will involve widening and resurfacing of the existing path to provide a high quality shared path.

Some path users have commented about the problem of vehicle headlight glare on the path. This glare mainly affects path users travelling in the northbound direction along Section 3 and potentially some of Section 4. We want to consult with path users to determine the extents of this potential problem and to receive feedback on design options.

Please find our online questionnaire at surveymonkey.com/s/HFGTDWB. This survey closes on Friday 2 May at 12.00pm.

Please feel free to circulate this information and questionnaire within your organisation or to any contacts you have who may use the A90 pathway or be interested in the project.

Regards

Paul
