

Email received by Spokes member from Cameron Buchanan MSP {Con]

26.1.16

"Thank you for getting in touch about spending on active travel. I agree that cycling and walking can play an important role in improving health, cutting emissions and simply making travel easier. There are many options when it comes to projects to encourage active travel and I believe each should be assessed on their own merits. The question should therefore not be how much can be spent, but rather how to ensure the money is available when effective, sustainable and popular projects are proposed.

I will certainly pass on your useful comments to our transport and finance policy teams."