Dear

Thank you for your recent email regarding the space allocated for cycles on Scotland's rail network. I appreciate you taking the time to get in touch and I will do what I can to help.

Accordingly I have written as you request to Derek Mackay, the minister for transport and islands, to put your points to him. It does seem to be bizarre to be cutting the opportunity for cyclists to use trains particularly as everyone is being encouraged to exercise more.

I will be in touch again once I have received further information.

Yours sincerely
